Designing Meaningful and Evidence-Based College Internships

In this webinar, CCWT's Executive Director Dr. Mindi Thompson will share what CCWT and other scholars working in the college internship space have learned from students about college internships and elements that contribute to positive internship experiences. Mindi will summarize research findings, share students' perspectives, and highlight evidence to support best practices. She will share information about how we used this evidence to develop and launch CCWT's inaugural internship program. Participants will gain a better understanding of current knowledge and learn strategies to design meaningful internship opportunities for all students.
